HELSINKI, March 12.—Finnish citizens of German birth have appealed to Adolf Hitler and other German leaders for support and have received the reply that their appeal has been placed in the hands of the men to whom it was addressed.

The appeal to Hitler and German leaders said: "We appeal to you from the bottom of our hearts not to permit that the sacrifice Germany made for this land shall have been in vain. Raise the voice of the Reich before all civilized nations against those bloody deeds which are being perpetrated on Finnish women and children and on this country which is an outpost of the German and the western world. About 100,000 of German birth many of whom fought for Finland in its war of independence, signed the appeal. The chairman of the meeting at which it was drafted closed the meeting with the words: "The world must not be given the opportunity of saying that Germany are moral cowards."

German Planes Hedge-Hop Over French Lines

BRUSSELS Press

PARIS, March 12.—German pursuit planes "hedge-hop" low over French lines at thunderbolt speed along the western front today in an extreme push of activity.

It was the first time during the war that the German pursuit planes had used such tactics. Usually they accompany reconnaissance flights.

The reason for the German activity was that German reconnaissance planes were being used or pilots were training.

DIVORCEE NOT DUE ALIMONY AFTER DEATH

First Wife Granted Life For Husband's Lifetime

CALGARY, March 12.—Ruling on the first action of the kind ever brought to trial in a Canadian court, Mr. Justice W. R. Houston decided that a divorced wife was not entitled to alimony after the death of her former husband.

His Lordship held, however, that Helen Jane McLeod, divorced wife of the late Edward Hugh McLeod, was entitled to alimony for the life of her husband.

Mr. McLeod obtained a decree nisi of divorce from her husband on November 18, 1932, and was granted custody of the four minor children of the marriage and maintenance for herself and children of $100 a month. The divorce was subsequently made absolute.

Mr. McLeod died on January 1, 1935, intestate, leaving a widow and three children by his second marriage. The first wife of the deceased was entitled to $100,000. The first wife of the deceased not only claimed arrears of alimony but claimed continuance of monthly payments from the estate of the deceased.

His Lordship ruled in favor of Helen Jane McLeod, that the court had a right to grant maintenance in divorce actions, that the divorced wife who had been granted judgment for maintenance, had a right to recover arrears, and such as she had had a right to use as evidence for arrears.

BRITAIN SAYS CANADA'S NAVY IS EFFICIENT

Work Compares With Any Naval Unit In Empire

Ottawa Advised

KINGSTON, Ont., March 12.—The Ottawa office of the British government has been advised by the Canadian naval service is doing as efficient a job as any naval unit in the British Empire.

The minister, who represented the riding in the last parliament, nominated yesterday to contest the seat again.

The minister asserted Hon. R. J. Manion, National Conservative leader, Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, Conservative leader, and Premier Heppburn had endeavored to create distrust across the Dominion.

YOUNG BOXER CONVICTED OF MANSLAUGHTER

NEW YORK, March 12.—Ernest Kehler, 24, pugilist, last night was sentenced to first degree manslaughter for the slaying of Dr. Walter R. Engelberg, first secretary of the German consulate here.

The verdict carries a possible maximum sentence of 12 years.

Dr. Engelberg was found beaten to death last Dec. 6 in an isolated Brooklyn home—a home which the neighbors had called "the German house"—because only men ever were seen to enter it.

The prosecution offered statements in which Kehler, who was arrested last in December, was represented as having acknowledged beating the German because of indirect charges that he was a spy.

In Kehler, Winnipeg boxer who fought under the name of Ernie Haas, in his alleged statement, Kehler contended he did not know Engelberg was dead when he left the German's Brooklyn house and fled to Toronto.

SHIP SHORTAGE CAUSES DELAY IN LUMBER DEAL

MONTREAL, March 12.—H. R. MacMillan, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, Vancouver lumber merchant, arrived here during the week-end from Great Britain where he discussed British Columbia timber interests during a four-week visit.

Mr. MacMillan said he believed scarcity of ship has caused the British government to yet to move the sale of an order of about 400,000,000 feet of lumber made some time ago to British Columbia.

"They have to use their ships for war in the order of the national importance and there are other commodities which are more important in the eyes of the British government than lumber," he added.

MANIONSAYS PROMISES OF GRITS BROKEN

Accuses Ministers From Quebec Of Action On War Issue

By Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA, March 12.—Hon. J. A. Manion, Conservative leader, last night accused a number of ministers from Quebec of breaking their promises to the province, and to remain in the government permitting Canada to participate in an external war.

Those promises, Mr. Manion said, had been made "on various occasions and for election purposes."

Manion, who was in the province of Quebec from the standpoint of the province, said he had repeatedly received his opponents' promises to remain in the government permitting Canada to participate in an external war.

He Just Listened

It was noted that at the conference between Von Ribbentrop and Mussolini the former "did most of the talking". Benito might have been more genial if Joachim had brought along a cheque to pay for the Italian ships the Nazis have bombed and torpedoed and to compensate the families of the sailors who were killed and drowned in the attacks. Sentiment counts for something, even among desperados, but after all those ships cost money and the seamen's families must eat if they are to live.

It Duce may not care greatly because the sailors lost their lives. He threw away Italian lives in Ethiopia like the prodigal son wasting his father's money. But he has practical sense in financial matters, and when it comes to paying for ships Adolf has sunk and supporting widows and orphans for whom he ought to provide, that is putting too heavy a strain on the already over-taxed axis friendship. And the way matters are going Benito would a great deal rather have cash in hand than a promise based on the credit Germany won't have when it gets through with the war.

Reciprocal Trade

At Washington the House of Representatives voted 216 to 158 to extend for three years the authority given the administration to make reciprocal trade agreements with other countries. There is a fair prospect that the Senate will also approve the measure, thus assuring that for three more years two-way trade will be the working maxim underlying United States foreign trade policy.

Canadians are interested because while our agreement with the United States has some time to run, a reverse vote would have meant that it would be cancelled as soon as possible and that renewed efforts would not be looked for. Unless the Senate kills the extension of power to the executive, the outlook will be that when the agreement is nearing expiry it can be renewed for a further term. The arrangement has now been in force long enough for its effects on United States trade and other producers to be known. Their objections were fully exploited during the debate in the House, without preventing the power extension bill passing by a good majority.

In December our exports to the United States were four millions more than our imports therefrom; indicating that the agreement gives neither country a serious reason to want it terminated. Previous to last year the exchange balance was against Canada.

Hand-Picked Hearers

Herr Hitler spoke on Sunday to a "selected" audience of 600 persons, whom his aids no doubt took the additional precaution to the search when they filed into the hall. That the premises were gone over beforehand by sharp-eyed bomb hunters may be supposed. The Fuehrer takes no chances since the Munich demonstration that there are persons in or near the inner circle who think he could be got along without. The idea of March are approaching, and Caesar must keep an eye out for Cassius and Brutus.

The speech is said to have been less marked by screaming than Herr Hitler's previous efforts. Text was "The world desires our dissolution"—"our" being interpreted to signify Germany, not the gangster organization that has seized power and plunged the country into a war of conquest. That is not true, of course. The Allies have not said they desire to dismember Germany, other than to give back the stolen territory to its rightful owners. The neutrals are certainly not proposing to pull the Reich to pieces, great as is the provocation given them.

If it is true to any degree that among other peoples there is a growing feeling that the world cannot be safe until the remainder of Germany's present Prussian domination, Herr Hitler and his associates are responsible. They have made Germany a menace, which it was not before their time. They have undoubtedly alienated the friendship of other nations almost without exception. But to say there is, even among Germany's present enemies, a desire to break up the country—which they could have easily broken up twenty years ago—is self-evident nonsense.

It required a hand-picked audience, even in Germany, to swallow that absurdity.

Free Listening

To his already uncounted list of election promises, Dr. Manion has added an offer to abolish radio licenses if the voters will only commission him to organize the "best brains" cabinet he proposes. In as much as he has not yet said who would be in the cabinet, for the excellent reason that he does not know, the validity of this promise is as open to suspicion as all the rest.

What a group of "unknown men" would be in this or any other matter, neither Dr. Manion nor anyone else can say in advance.

That aside, this latest bid for votes is a proposal that people who have no radios be made pay the listening charges of those who have. Radio-owners now pay about $3,000,000 per year of the $3,500,000 it takes to operate the Broadcasting Corporation. That three millions would have to be made up in some way if the national broadcasting system was to be continued on a free listening plan.

It could only be made up by advertising if seven times as much advertising matter is interlarded between programs and items as is now carried; in which event there would soon be more dead radios than lives ones in the land; and the advertising patronage would dwindle away. To keep the system going on the present basis of a maximum of entertainment and information, and a minimum of advertising, the three millions would have to be taken out of general revenue—that is, out of the pockets of the general taxpayers.

But perhaps it has come to Dr. Manion that some of the "best brains" would very much like to destroy the national broadcasting system and leave the field open to privately-owned stations. The inference is pretty clear, for a radio license at $250 for a whole year is now the best "bait" on the entertainment market and there has been no apparent desire among listeners to give up the service for the sake of the cost.

Undoubtedly if the national system were abolished and the other turned over to private concerns radio licenses would have to be free, for that is all they would be worth.

About the time Premier Mussolini was penning his hot protest to London because coal ships from Germany were being held up, a Nazi airplane bombed and machine-gunned the Italian steamer Mira in the North Sea. What will the bellicose Benito do about that?

The Passing Show

By MAX FREEDMAN

Chicago once echoed to the glories of Samuel Insull. His word was law in the empire of business. Men loved his will and thought it an honor to serve him. Then, in 1932, his house of power fell, in a crash that shook the very base of the personal life of the man.

Levant, he thereafter sought refuge that ever eluded him and he was never again to be heard of on earth. When he did he left a Paris Metro, he left a life whose decayed grandeur and tarnished brilliance point to the futility of having any great deed done by a mean mind.

But the last chapter in this tragedy of failure is still to be written with his name. One final poignant note was yet to be added. Insull's son and namesake has now asked a Chicago court to tell his heirs as executor of his father's trust estate for $50,000,000. Claims against it by stockholders total $18,000,000.

By 1940 politicians in the United States will lack words to hide the poverty of their ideas. The big campaign still many months away, Republican aspirants for the presidential race are already busy befogging the public mind.

As an opening gun in his campaign, Senator Vandenberg calmly proposed that the Republican Party should accept the lowest tender.

Party. Speaking in Milwaukee he said: "I believe in Republican victory this year is inevitable, unless Providence has forsaken the country." And Senator Robert Taft, who seems unable to get away from his famous name, continues to make speeches for the ostensible purpose of being the next president but in reality only to provide added proof that he is a very humdrum and mediocre idea. He and Taft go ill together. This is the Washington headquarters telephone number—ME 1940.

Every year Dorothy Thompson, who is doing her best to make the "best brains" out of it in the underwear, sends books as gifts to leading men of the world. At least she draws up a list of books she feels they might read with profit and spiritual grace. Here are some of her selections, and it may be suggested that on the basis of these titles, many politicians in Canada might do well to study with advantage.

To F. D. Roosevelt: "Margin For Error."

To John Nance Garner: "A Smattering of Ignorance."

To James Cromwell: "You Don't Have to Be Rich."

To Sumner Welles: "Trade Routes."

To Neville Chamberlain: "A Victorian in the Modern World."

To Benito Mussolini: "No Time For Comedy."

To Joseph Stalin: "True Off For Murder."

To Heinrich Himmler: "Murder Likes Company."

To Winston Churchill: "The Danger of Being a Gentleman."

To Fritz Kuhn: "Crime and Punishment."

To Leon Trotsky: "The Man the Devil Does Not Want."

To the Republic of Czechoslovakia: "They Take the Sword."

To the Communist Party of America: "The Little Foxes."

Canadians will never be able to understand why Americans are afraid of electing a president to a third term. They are now being asked to vote for Mr. King who has already seen more than 15 years as prime minister. Laurier and Macdonald ruled only three men.

THIRD THIRDS: Baldwin, Macdonald and Chamberlain, have ruled only three men.

British, have ruled only three men. Canada would be a boot if he was told the fathers of Confederation had laid it down as a sacred unwritten law that no man should be prime minister more than twice. If we believed he was the best man for the task, we would vote for him and continue to do so until we were told our confidence. This trust in the third term tradition in the United States is a taboo. If it were broken, and the heavens do not fall, Americans will wonder how on earth they were hypnotized by a strange and delusive formula that no man should be prime minister more than twice.

But Mr. Roosevelt would be well advised if he told the leaders of his own party, who got their jobs because he appointed them, to stop blowing the trumpet for his re-election. They are hurting his cause, wounding his prestige. Enemies of reform point to these acts as proof positive that the president has built up a party machine that will grind down all constitutional restraints if Mr. Roosevelt is given power for another four years.

What has to be determined in the United States is whether the American people want to follow the highway whose milestones point to Washington and progress, or the road that leads to a blind detour of reaction. If they prefer stultified stunts to creative ideas, there are many men in the parties, ready for the job. But from this distance it looks as if there is only one man with the genius for leadership that marks Mr. Roosevelt. Why change a star turn for a dud?

OLD AND NEW

Old Jerusalem is gray, the color of weathered limestone; new Jerusalem, to the north of the city wall, is red, with tile roofs and modern buildings. The old city is crowded with historical associations; the latter is as commonplace as money.

Some of the old associations, beneath the city itself, came the limestone of which the old city is built. It has outlasted centuries, and barring earthquakes and bombs, should stand for other long centuries to come.

Building material for life is suggested by any contemplation of this old city, built on the unyielding rock of the limestone. It is a foundation, but also the material wherewith to build.

Buying Canada's War Supplies

By GRANT DEXTER

OTTAWA—CHARGES ARE BEING MADE against the methods used by the government in purchasing war supplies. C.C.F. candidates are declaring that the government has knocked out the best profit limit, enacted by parliament in 1939, and that, in consequence, war contracts are now being made at extravagant prices. Conservative criticism is more sweeping. Hon. Harry Stevens, speaking at Fort William on March 4, said: "Profiteering in war contracts is notorious and scandalous."

For the reason that war purchases are now being made almost entirely by the War Supply Board, these criticisms are aimed at that body and, to a lesser extent, at its predecessor the Defence Purchasing Board. Here is the record of war buying in the past year: Prior to 1939 buying was done by the National Defence department and several "cost plus" contracts were entered into. There was a much criticism. However, that in 1939 another Defence Purchasing act was passed and on July 14, 1939, the Defence Purchasing Board was established. This act limited profits to 10 per cent.

On Sept. 27, an order-in-council was passed, under the War Measures act, freeing the Defence Purchasing Board for the 8 per cent limitation. This is the order referred to by C.C.F. speakers. The order, however, did more than this. The Board is now compelled to call for tenders to accept the lowest tender. "These regulations may be departed from only in cases of urgency due to military considerations or where it is necessary for other good and sufficient reason, and in any case the grounds of the departure shall be clearly stated."

On Nov. 1, the War Supply Board was created and took over the duties of the Defence Purchasing Board. Again, there was no limitation on profit. The War Supply Board was created to be greater powers than the former board had possessed. The War Supply Board was empowered to "regulate the resale of goods and services for the securing of munitions and other supplies."

The board actually can compel industrialists to sell goods to the war effort. It can take over their plants and operate these plants as it pleases. The board must, wherever it is practicable, accept the lowest bid if it is deemed too high. Moreover, all war contracts must be on the basis that they can be terminated at any time by the government. This last enactment is criticized by industrialists and bankers alike. They claim that a war contract, because of this provision, is essentially not a sale but a lease.

The board has not yet used its reserve powers. But apparently it came near doing so in the contracts for the construction of ships. In this case, the board refused all tenders because they were deemed to be too high. The price for the ships was $100,000 each (it was lower than the lowest tender) and asked the shipyard owners to accept it. Had the price been accepted, the board would have had the shipbuilders to accept it.

Had the shipbuilders refused, the board was ready to take over their yards and operate them. These extreme powers were not used because the largest shipbuilding firm finally accepted the board's price and satisfactory agreement were entered with other shipbuilders.

No doubt there is a disposition to believe charges of inefficiency in war purchasing because of the last war. People remember the scandals of 1914, 15 and 16. Not until 1917 was the War Purchasing Commission established. Until then all the departments of the Dominion government competed against each other in purchases. There was no unified purchasing authority in Britain, France or the United States. Some of these governments bought in Canada in competition with buyers for the Canadian government. There were more buyers than sellers and the price was high.

The time has come when the government entered the war with a purchasing organization. The Allied governments have also entered the war with a purchasing organization. In Canada, through the War Supply Board. In the result, all war purchases in Canada are made by one body. There is but one buyer and many sellers.

This set-up already has saved the taxpayers millions of dollars. The savings in the months ahead will be greater. Between July 14, when the Defence Purchasing Board began operations, and Sept. 27, when the War Supply Board was established, the board had total approximately $92 millions, and comprise some $600 contracts. The War Supply Board is now handling between 400 and 500 contracts per week, involving, on average $4,000,000 per week. The men in charge of the board are outstanding industrialists, lawyers and business executives. Most of them, like the chairman, Wallace Campbell, and Henry Bond (nephew of Sir Robert) happen to be Conservatives.

Many of them are working and working very hard without taking a dollar for it.

What has to be determined in the United States is whether the American people want to follow the highway whose milestones point to Washington and progress, or the road that leads to a blind detour of reaction. If they prefer stultified stunts to creative ideas, there are many men in the parties, ready for the job. But from this distance it looks as if there is only one man with the genius for leadership that marks Mr. Roosevelt. Why change a star turn for a dud?

It is fair to say that members of the War Supply Board have stated that many Canadian industrialists have taken contracts below a price which the board would have regarded as fair.

This is particularly true of the clothing industry and of war being done on the warfields. These are industrialists who do not want to make a dollar out of this war. They will never receive credit for their patriotism in this part of the world. There are no decorations or distinguished service there.

There are others who desire to "cash in" on the war. And there is the great majority that is content with a small profit.

At Ottawa you will encounter some criticism of the board but always the charge is that the board is too keen on price cutting and too slow in awarding contracts. Among some of the senior men in the fighting services there is a "hey, slow and stable and woad Christians. For we are building for eternity, Amen."

OTTAWA—CHARGES ARE BEING MADE against the methods used by the government in purchasing war supplies. C.C.F. candidates are declaring that the government has knocked out the best profit limit, enacted by parliament in 1939, and that, in consequence, war contracts are now being made at extravagant prices. Conservative criticism is more sweeping. Hon. Harry Stevens, speaking at Fort William on March 4, said: "Profiteering in war contracts is notorious and scandalous."

From the air training plan is concerned, the suggestion that it might have been undertaken at an earlier date was not substantiated, as asserted by the Prime Minister, Mr. Gardiner said.

Previous to the Munich affair, the government of Ontario had been entered into discussions with farmers' organizations to try to develop a method of handling grain which would be satisfactory to the producers and would be based on our experience with all the different methods of handling grain that we tried in western Canada, said McGordon. After the Munich affair, which happened in 1938, it became still more important that some change should be made in our method of handling wheat.

INTRODUCED NEW PLAN

The new plan was introduced with farmer and other grain handling organizations in western Canada. Legislation was introduced in parliament which would give authority for the marketing of the crop.

The coming summer will see healthy activity in the proving and developing of the new plan in the Yellowknife area. Charles E. Verharm, head manager of the Northwest Gold Mines Limited, said there Tuesday.

Mr. Segraman and his wife returned to the city Monday on a

The plan involved continuation of a wheat board, leaving in the legislation the power to appoint an advisory committee. The plan also gave the board the authority to attempt to set a price for wheat either minimum or maximum.

It was then decided the farmer should have a wheat production certificate, just as before, which meant that when wheat went

"Practically all of the wheat left to be sold is under the control of the wheat board and therefore, under the control of the government," says the farmer.

"That wheat could all be sold to Britain tomorrow at not less than 87 cents a bushel," claimed the minister.

"I don't think it is wise to sell all the Canadian wheat at 87 cents a bushel," says the farmer.

"We believe Britain will pay us about the same price as we can get about the field. Booms don't lead to development but retard it," he said, because they result in much money being invested in unproductive properties and the whole mining business suffers.

"If the government will install a small mill on the property and during the summer expect to ship a million bushels of concentrates, concentrates and crude ore."

BOSTON'S "KRAUT" LINE DOUBLES SCORING

"Wan Beeg Injustice" Declares Battling Pusie

By ROBERT CLARKE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL, March 12—Jean Baptiste Pusie is in town, saddened by the latest episode in his hockey life, but with a burning conviction that this time, at least, he is right. Waving his hands, the long-jawed French-Canadian defender made his side today of his sudden departure from Vancouver and the Lions of the Pacific Coast League.

The words tumbled out: "Pusie is always ready to admit when he is in the wrong. After fight Pusie has had in 11 years of professional hockey." And he grinned: "Nature—e a lot are my own fault. I rush in to try and stop Manager Bobby Howe of Polaris from hitting the referee and for throwing parts of his stick at the referee. Pusie is a hell of a note."

This was his attack on his work at Vancouver, after he had been fined $100 and suspended one game for striking three persons, including the referee, and for throwing parts of his stick at the referee. Pusie of Vancouver during a Vancouver-Portland game March 4. Bows were fined $100 for his part in the mix-up.

PUSIE IS DONE. Pusie doesn't intend to do any more hockey playing this season. The Lions presently are engaged in the playoffs in the P.C.L. and Pusie, who came through Winnipeg a newspaperman three months ago, said he had no intention of going back.

"No more hockey for me this season," said Pusie. Perhaps as great a tribute as he has ever received, Canadian, whose antics have been his in hot water continually throughout his career, came when he invaded Montreal Canadiens Saturday night. The Canadiens were about to take to the ice against Detroit.

THEY DON'T FORGET. It is more than a half-dozen years since Pusie was in the National Hockey league but he still is a better player engaged now with N.H.L. teams. Pusie, who was in the room when players began to josh him about his "flair" from Vancouver.

Because of injuries Canadian carried only three defences in the game and Manager Jules Dujon jokingly told Pusie to "hurry up and get into a uniform." From the way the big fellow's eyes shone up he would have liked it a lot.

Paterson Wins Flyweight Title

MANCHESTER, March 12—Jack Paterson of Glasgow, British flyweight champion, outpointed Jim Towner of British Guiana in a fierce 15-round bout Monday night at the vacant British Empire flyweight belt.

Paterson suffered a badly cut left cheek in the fourth round and Towner re-opened the wound in the 10th, drawing a free flow of blood. But a furious last-round attack by Paterson won Towner's surrender on the ropes and got him the verdict.

ELECT GRITS FOR OTTAWA SPEAKER SAYS

Ballot For Government
Supporters, Ald. Caselman Urges

Althier will have no further cause to say it is discriminated against if it elects a substantial body of government supporters to the parliament at Ottawa, Ald. F. C. Caselman, M.C., Liberal candidate for East Edmonton, told a meeting in Francophon Hall, North Edmonton, Monday night.

There were only 16 Social Credit members in the last parliament, a small minority group, he said, and they did not accomplish a single thing. The C.C.F., also a minority party, had a program of straight Socialism, he added.

"I don't think there is any doubt that the Mackenzie King government is going to be returned," he said. "The direction of the war effort is a big issue and I am quite confident that the people of Canada are not going to turn out the government, which has made an excellent beginning in getting a united Canada away from an excellent start in a contribution that may well be a decisive factor in the winning of the war."

The Conservatives, having no hope of electing a government, have settled the good old Conservative party, which since the war has played an important part in the rebuilding of Canada, and have pitched at the foot of the throne of the National party. What hope has Dr. Manion, when he doesn't even say what parties and what leaders are going to form his government?"

Modern Puzzles

—BY GERALD L. KAUFMAN
KNOTS OR NOT KNOTS

See if you can unravel these six pieces of rope without getting caught in the loops. Grasp the two loose ends firmly in your mind, and imagine yourself pulling them until you have a straight piece of rope—either with a knot or without one. In certain cases these ropes form knots; in others they just form loops that will pull out right away. Find the knots and mark your choices by underlining the letters below the ropes you think will become knotted. Solution tomorrow.

SOLUTION TO MONDAY'S PUZZLE, UPSIDE-TURNED POKER:
Your hand (the one with four cards still turned down) is composed of the following: 3-8, 4-8, 5-8, 6-8, 7-8, a straight flush. The seventh hand was also a straight flush: 8-4, 6-4, 7-4, 8-4, 9-4.

Salvation Army To Get Fund Objective Officials Declare

There is every hope the Salvation Army's National War and Home Service Campaign will reach its Edmonton objective of $30,000 before the drive winds up next week. This was the consensus of opinion expressed at a meeting of campaign officials at the Royal George hotel Monday night.

COUNCIL ASKED TO GIVE BOOST FOR AIR ROUTE

Commissioners were instructed Monday night by city council to make inquiries into a request from Western Air Express Corporation of Burbank, Calif., that council or the Chamber of Commerce assist it in planning before the United States government the desirability of an air service from Great Falls, Montana to Lethbridge, Alberta. L. H. Duerksen, vice-president of the corporation, wrote to Mayor John W. Fry stating that the civil aeronautics examiners had made a report stating that potential traffic did not warrant the operation of air service on this route.

Taking exception to the report the city was asked to send a resolution of protest to Robert H. Hinkley, chairman of the civil aeronautics authority, Washington, D.C. Western Air Express has been seeking a franchise to operate an air route link between its line and Trans-Canada Air Lines.

Sitting as a court of revision on Monday to revise the Edmonton constituency voters list in the provincial general election of March 21, H. H. Crawford, returning officer dealt with between 100 and 150 names.

Mr. Crawford stated that many of these names were for corrections as to initials, spelling of names, addresses and other matters. Many persons came stating that their names had been left off the list and investigation showed them to be on it. Others stated that their names were left off and were duly added.

The advance poll for the Edmonton constituency would be open from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m., and from 8 a.m. until 10 p.m., on March 14, 15 and 16 at his office in Stevenson's Furniture Exchange, 9016 Jasper Avenue.

Hospitals which have 20 or more patients will have a deputy returning officer and a poll clerk visit them to record votes of those confined to hospital.

GRITS UNITING
CANADA IN WAR
M'KINNON SAYS

Canada was brought into the war as a united people by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, stated Hon. James A. MacKinnon, P.C., Liberal candidate for West Edmonton, at a reception held in the Jasper Place Liberal community centre Monday night.

There must be unity of effort among the people in the war effort, he declared. "Mr. MacKinnon referred to the peace-time work of the Liberal government and stated that the savings adjustments could safely be left in its hands."

Proper representation in the Dominion government is necessary, he said, and is obtained through a lessening of minority representation, and a greater group representation. About 125 persons attended the informal meeting.

"Kan-A-Nazi" Is Name
For Internment Camp:
One Prisoner Is Baron

By LORNE BRUCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

KANANASKIS INTERMENT CAMP, Alta., March 12
—"Kan-A-Nazi" is the unofficial name of this western Canadian camp where Germans arrested after the outbreak of war and representing nearly every walk of life have been interned.

One of the prisoners thought of the name soon after the camp was established last fall in a section of the Kananaskis forest in experimental station. Newspapers heard about it while making a conducted tour of the camp.

The reporters were not permitted to talk to prisoners but they ate a meal from the prisoners' kitchen. The arrangements made to guard the camp and the prisoners' conditions under which internment camp forestry work is carried on and learned of entertainment and recreational facilities provided the prisoners.

MOST ARE FARMERS
Farmers predominate among the prisoners held in this camp 60 miles northwest of Calgary in the Rocky Mountains when newspapers visited it. With them were three persons of considerable wealth and education, including a blacksmith, an editor, a gardener, a mechanic, a shoe maker, a baker, a merchant, a sheep rancher, a cattle owner, a electrician and one German baron.

One prisoner professed to be a follower of Father Divine, the little Harlem negro whose ducky followers follow him God. Another
